

MARLOWE SAM, PH.D

Marlowe Sam is a member of the Colville Confederated Tribe of Washington State and is a Wenatchee descendent currently residing in Penticton, B.C. Marlowe is a sessional adjunct professor of Indigenous Studies at the University of British Columbia Okanagan, Irving K. Barber School of Arts and Sciences. Additionally, Marlowe is an instructor at the En'owkin Centre in the DSTC program. Marlowe has a B.A. Major in Indigenous Studies and M.A. and Ph.D. Interdisciplinary Studies from the University of B.C. Okanagan.